This Is a Good Hat Trick.

writer ever witnessed was played with a hat. Some other fellow's hat, of course! Practical joking, as a rule, is objectionable and not to be enle, is objectionable and not to be enuraged, but in the following no evil have it.

In ever spend your have it.

In the enjoys the joke as much those who planned it.

It is as follows: Take an old brush of ever of some six inches of its hand.

Into the shorter piece insert a edle, head foremost, and placing your leads, (or enemy's) hat centrally between the two pieces, press the needle well home. Now, apparently, the han-die passes through the crown of the hat, the needle keeping all securely in position. Place in a cover or else-where and wait results.

where and wait results.

Another way of playing the same trick is to take any piece of stick, roughly paint one end, saw through the middle and fix "through" a hat with a needle, exactly as before. Hang this on a peg, as shown in our illustration. The victim, thinking his hat ruined, will be most angry at first, but as soon as he tries to release his hat, the trick is dis-covered and his frown is almost certain to give place to a smile.

Designed by May Manton.

Girl's Blouse Costume.

THIS dress combines a blouse with a gored skirt. As illustrated the material is dark blue cashmere with trimming of plaid, edged with black, but many other materials and trimmings are equally appropriate. The waist is made over a fitted body lining, but it is soft and full, blousing over the belt. The sleeves are large and full above the deep cuffs, and the skirt is cut in five gores with a flounce at the lower edge. The belt is pointed at the front and serves to confect the two, the closing being made at the left side of the front. Material for medium size (12 years) is 9 yards 21, 614 yards 22 or 5 yards 44 inches wide, and 19 yards of veivet ribbon. Patter: 4,819 for girls of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years of age will be mailed for 10c. Send money to "Cashier, The World, Pulitzer Building, New York City."
